

Trading Analyst

MRA is seeking an extremely talented and ambitious team member. Recent college grads and those with 1-2 years of experience are welcome to apply. Though not a prerequisite, the ideal candidate will have roughly two years experience on a flow desk with some knowledge backing up customers. You must have a passion for the markets, an outstanding work ethic, and strong quantitative skills. In addition, the candidate should thrive in a small team environment, be highly detail oriented, and a great team player.

The candidate will receive a thorough "soup to nuts" background in Sales & Trading, learning and participating in all parts of the business, including trade clearing/operations, strategy & research, and sales and execution.

The candidate will develop many of the skills associated with a bulge bracket "Analyst" program, combined with the culture, personal impact, and flat structure that one can expect from a startup. This is an environment that encourages high level analytical thinking, teamwork, and inspires passionate employees to work hard and pursue personal growth.

Clearing and Execution Responsibilities

- Jointly report to Head of Compliance and Operations and Heads of Trading
- Master the MRA clearing process by understanding all of the nuances of stock & option clearing. Troubleshoot trade issues and find opportunities for efficiency within the clearing process
- Communicate with salestraders internally to ensure that trades are properly booked and cleared
- Work with Bloomberg, client Prime Brokers, our clearing firm and clients to reconcile trade breaks
- Support sales team with trade bookings, working with client middle office groups
- Support Heads of Trading on execution process for stock and options, loading orders into the OMS, trading electronically, interfacing with layoff accounts and taking fills from floor brokers

Candidate Requirements

- One or more years experience at an investment bank (preferably on a trading desk) or hedge fund.
- Passion for following the markets and investing. Voracious reader.
- Strong quantitative aptitude, proficiency with designing quantitative spreadsheets.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills.
- Desire to learn the equity derivative sales, salestrading, and strategy business.
- Highly coachable, good sense of humor, entrepreneurial spirit and passion for teamwork.
